

Online Dating Solution

Dating Development Solutions:

The online dating industry is growing by nearly $100 million a year, resulting in a competitive battle of online dating services, where new services are popping up virtually every week. There are online dating sites now dedicated specifically to cat lovers, dog lovers, vegetarians, and even specific religions. Dating sites have focused on increasing conversions of viewers into paying subscribers in order to keep growing. Many dating sites are also paying more attention to serious daters rather than casual daters to increase their site revenue. Serious daters are those people who go online hoping to find long-term relationships or marriage. Serious daters convert 20% more often, are twice as likely to purchase long-term subscriptions and pay up to twice as much per month as casual daters. The growth of the online dating industry is phenomenal
